The Cincinnatl Enquirer is responsible for the following: Talking of legal witticisms-(and, perhaps, the proportion of wit to talk is less in law than in anything else) a story we have heard of the late Thad. Stevens, beats any other. While Thad, was a young lawyer, he once had a case before a very bad tempered judge of an obscure Pennsylerin's mauner, " It'll only cost you $2. vania court. Under what he considered a very erroneous ruling, it was decided against him; whereupon he threw down his books and picked up his hat in a high state of indignation, and was about to leave the court-room scattering imprecations all around him The judge straightened himself to his full height, assumed an air of offended majesty, and asked Thad. if he meant to "express his contempt of this court." Thad, turned to him very deferentially, made a respectful bow, and replied in feigned amazement: " Express my contempt for this court! No, sir! I am trying to conceal it, your honor,"-adding, as he turned to leave, "but it's d-d hard to do it."

BY MARK TWAIN. I do not wish to write of the personal habits of these strange creatures solely, but also of certain curious details of various kinds concerning them which, belonging only to their private life, have never crept into print. Knowing the Twins intimately, I feel that I am peculiarly well qualified for gular fidelity throughout a long and eventful life. Even as children they were inseperable companions; and it was noticed that they always seemed to prefer each other's society to that sold as low as any House in the always played together; and so accuswas their mother to this pecufiarity, that, whenever both of them chanced to be lost, she usually only hunted for one of them-satisfied that when she found one she would find Grain Silks, 1000 yards Fancy his brother somewhere in the imme-Silks.
